Atwater Scrapbook Index

Introduction

Amzi Atwater (1839-1919), was a founding member of the Monroe County Historical Society, a professor of Latin & Greek, as well as Vice-President, at Indiana University, and staunch prohibitionist. A Civil War veteran, he came to Bloomington in 1865 as minister of the First Christian Church, received an I.U. degree in 1866, and joined the I.U. faculty in about 1870.

Atwater clipped the local newspapers from 1898 to 1914, and organized them into 17 scrapbooks, which were first housed in the I.U. Library, but given to the Historical Society in 2011. Each scrapbook covers one or more topics, and an index in the front lists the topics and page numbers for the relevant clippings. Indicating his passionate interests, scrapbooks #6 and #17 are devoted solely to the temperance movement, and #9-#11 to churches.

A combined index has been created, consisting of 1,528 items. There are two index versions, the first in scrapbook order, the second in alphabetical topic order. They can be found on the History Center's website, under "Library/Research/Indexes and Resources/Atwater Scrapbooks Index."
